School

This school is big. That playground is huge. These classrooms are bright, and those books are colourful. Here, students learn and make friends. There, teachers help us grow and explore. These desks are for studying, and those computers are for learning. Words like 'this,' 'that,' 'these,' and 'those' help us talk about things close or far in the school. They show what we like, where we go, and what we use for our education. This makes it easy to explain our school, point out places, and share what we enjoy doing here. These little words are really useful when we talk about our school experiences!

School Life

My school life is an exciting journey filled with learning and adventures. Every morning, I eagerly step into the school gates, ready for a day of discovery. I have various classes where I explore subjects like math, science, art, and more. Each lesson is like a new chapter unfolding, offering knowledge and challenges. During breaks, I meet friends, play games, and share stories, making wonderful memories together. Projects and activities bring out my creativity and let me showcase what I've learned. The school library is my favorite spot, where I dive into books and explore fascinating worlds. Field trips are thrilling, taking me to places I've never been and teaching me new things beyond the classroom. My school life isn't just about studying; it's a blend of learning, laughter, friendships, and discoveries that shape who I am.
